The Champions of Fraternity's first open house on Friday evening proved to be a very pleasant affair. This order has sprung into popularity at a single bound and is now among the strongest lodges in this section.

The subjects of the sermon at the Baptist church this morning will be "Arizona for Christ." In the evening the pastor will speak on "The Bible Plan of Salvation." A glad welcome will be given to all who attend the services.

The bridge on the Phoenix & Eastern road at the first crossing of the Gila river will be completed in a few days which will permit of the running of trains to the second crossing within about four miles of Kelvin. It will require several days to repair the damage to the second bridge and that over Mineral Creek at Kelvin.

That list of the Rough Rider guard for inauguration published by "some papers" of the territory made a correct guess of two members. Even that is a better guess than many made by these same "some papers."

Governor Brodie, according to a Washington telegram in the Phoenix Republican has been appointed as assistant chief of the records and pension office with the rank of major. General Ainsworth formerly in the medical department is chief of the office. The position to which Governor Brodie has been appointed is of life tenure and puts him in line of further promotions.

General Passenger Traffic Manager Nicholson and General Freight Traffic Manager Biddle, of the Santa Fe, were unable to visit Prescott as they had intended, on account of important business in California which demanded their attention and they passed through Ash Fork yesterday for there. General Passenger Agent H. P. Aneval, of the S. P. & P. railroad accompanied them, the latter's assistant, W. S. Goldworthy being called to Ash Fork yesterday for a conference with them.

Malcolm Lowry, son of Sheriff and Mr. J. R. Lowry, celebrated his eleventh birthday yesterday afternoon. It was too big and important an occasion for him to do it all alone so he invited about twenty or thirty of his boy and girl friends to assist him. Every one knows what a success twenty or thirty boys and girls can make in the celebration of any event and that of yesterday was no exception to the rule. They had a fine time playing and eating and of course wished their host Malcolm many happy returns of his birthday anniversary.

Governor Brodie to whom was intrusted the task of selecting from the Rough Riders a guard of honor of thirty members for the president on inauguration, has announced the list. Those from Arizona who will act in this capacity are as follows: A. O. Brodie, J. H. McClintock, J. L. B. Alexander, B. F. Daniels, C. E. Mills and George B. Wilcox. Frank Frantz, formerly of Prescott, but now a resident of Oklahoma, and General Sherman Bell, formerly adjutant general of Colorado, are among the number.

Ward Harrington, one of the well known typographical artists of Prescott, and a competent and trustworthy man in the business, has returned from a sojourn in the capital city. The mountain air of this section is more agreeable to him than the alfalfa ozone of the Salinas, not to say the muddy soil that infests that locality since the rain has fallen so abundantly.

During his recent visit to Washington, Forest Supervisor F. R. Stewart had a conversation with Senator Foraker, of Ohio, with whom he has been acquainted for twenty five years, on the statehood question. The senator assured Mr. Stewart that the joint statehood bill will never be passed in its present shape. The only way that it can be passed is with an amendment providing for a separate vote of the two territories and a rejection by either will defeat the bill. Mr. Stewart says that Senator Foraker has done valiant service for Arizona on the statehood question. He is a very ardent admirer of the senator and thinks him, a feasible and logical presidential possibility for 1908.

A car load of eggs arrived on yesterday's train from the north. There are probably very few people who are aware just what a car load of eggs means. The Journal-Miner representative who obtained this item of news did not know, and obtained the information to satisfy his own curiosity. As there are probably some readers of the paper who are as curious as he was, and who may be interested in knowing the information it is given for their benefit. There are four hundred cases of eggs in a car load. A case consists of thirty dozen eggs, hence four hundred cases would be 12,000 doz. or 144,000 eggs. This number of eggs, allowing 2 to each person would be sufficient to provide eggs for breakfast for an army of 72,000 soldiers. This car load was consigned to the B-B company.

President Hunt, of the council has had several years' experience in legislative matters, and is generally pretty level headed, but he evidently permitted some one to impose on him when he introduced that bill to amend the Andrews' tax law. Under the Andrews' law, a corporation dissatisfied with its assessment must first pay its taxes before it can obtain standing in court. Under the law, as proposed by this amendment, it could refuse to pay any portion of its taxes, until final adjudication in the courts, and it could be permitted to drag for years. Where the taxes are for any large amount the plan is to force the supervisors to a compromise. The law as it stands at present is in the interest of good government and the amendment should be defeated. Mr. Hunt did not care to father the pernicious amendment and introduced it by request. The forfeit money has been put up for the inter-county steering contest between representatives of Maricopa and Yavapai counties. This is the result of a match that has been undergoing arrangements ever since last fall. The Yavapai contestants will be Joe Rudy and Walter Cline and the Maricopa champions will be Wayne Davis and William Anderson. The match will be held in Phoenix, on February 19th and the terms of it are that each man shall tie three steers and shall contribute $250 to the pot. The winning team will take the roll.—Republicans.

He also stated that he has never found any place with as pure and bracing an atmosphere as that of Prescott and thinks we have the finest climate to be found any place.

Miss Harriet Cope celebrated her fifteenth birthday on Saturday evening at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Robert Burch, on south Marina street at which there were a large number of boys and girls present. Games were played for which prizes were given, the first prize being won by Miss Minnie Seaman. Most delicious refreshments were also served to the joy the young people and as the guests took their departure, each was given a small piece of birthday cake

While three boys from Whipple, who were on a camping tour on Saturday, were preparing supper near Duke's ranch. Alfred Thomason, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomason, accidentally shot himself in the foot with a bullet from a 22-caliber rifle severing one of the arteries. Being a doctor's son and having watched the soldiers as they were given instructions how to care for wounds in emergencies and happening to have an emergency package in his pocket, the youth was enabled to bandage the wound in as skillful a manner as a professional nurse or physician could have done. On his return to Whipple the wound was treated by Dr. Thomason.

The chairman of the board of supervisors the probate judge and the clerk of the district court yesterday drew the juror list for 1905. The names of ninety citizens of the county were drawn for the grand jury list and an equal number for the trial jury list. The drawing of jurors is somewhat of a complicated transaction.

Early in the year the board of supervisors go through the great register of the county and select nine hundred names from it of citizens eligible to jury duty. Then on the third Monday in January, the chairman of the board, clerk of the court and probate judge take this list and cull it down to two hundred, being one hundred for each branch of jury duty as above. Just prior to the convening of court, at a date fixed by law, these lists of names are taken and put separately into a receptacle and from the respective lists the grand and trial jurors for the term are drawn.

Mr. Hardy won a great many friends during his residence in this section.

Mr. Perkins is second vice president of the Arizona Cattle Growers association, and shows an active interest in the work of that association."

At the beginning of the late congressional campaign the Journal was established for the purpose of conducting Mark Smith's campaign in Maricopa county, and ceased publication at the end of the campaign. It is Mr. Dunbar's intention to make the Journal the organ of the Maricopa county democracy.—Republican.

A Journal-Miner representative took a peep into the Elks building yesterday and found it a veritable hive of industry. Artisans of every kind were at work. There were plain carpenters, stage carpenters, plumbers, painters, plasterers, staff work mechanics, electric light men, steam heating plant workers, a small army of them in the aggregate with Architect Minor supervising the work of all and all pushing work to get the opera house completed for the opening on February 26th.

Assistant District Attorney S. L. Pattee, who was associated with District Attorney E. S. Clark, in the United Verde tax case, has conscientiously and consistently continued to advocate the cause of the tax payer and has used his best efforts to secure that $15,000 which is theirs by right from the Copper company. The Journal-Miner has no fight to make against that company, but it has always considered that an outrageous wrong was perpetrated by the unwarranted and high handed act of the board at that secret midnight session held in 1903.

Final settlement and distribution was made yesterday in the probate court of the entire estate of the late H. J. Allen. The estate was distributed to Arabelle Allen, widow of deceased, sole legatee under the will. It consisted of three hundred and twenty acres of land in the Verde valley at Peck's lake, together with the improvements, farming implements, household and kitchen furniture and personal effects of deceased, 4,399 2-3 shares of stock in the Jerome Power company and undivided one fourth interest in Squaw Peak mines. ## A PROJECT TO BE SUPPORTED

An Opportunity to Make the Industrial Resources of This County Better Known and More Attractive to the Investor.

The judicious distribution of literature, whether through public or private channels has time and again been demonstrated as accomplishing material results to the individual as well as the community. Whether the motive be mines or mining, climatic conditions to be made known, or the desirability of landed rights in agriculture or kindred pursuits, the results are the same. It is the publicity that is given in either channel that sooner or later brings into prominence that which is made known. An investment may naturally be the outcome but if not no harm can follow the making known of the resources desired in either channel. It is this principle of making the many million of people on the outside familiar with the mineral conditions of Yavapai and the agricultural and other resources of Maricopa that has prompted Messrs. Shultz and Butler of this city to inaugurate the second special edition of the Prospect, and to place it before the many million of people who will visit the forth coming Lewis and Clarke exposition to be held in May of this year at Portland, Ore. To this end these gentlemen are now preparing their laudable work accordingly. In doing so they desire to receive the support of the two counties to be affected, and to this end they will endeavor to clearly and dispassionately make representations that will result in a better acquaintance among the people of the outside with the magnificent resources open in this section of Arizona for investment or investigation. They should be supported in a handsome manner, for the character of the information that will be given, will to say the least be creditable to every industry, and from the method to be pursued, the edition will be handled in such a manner that a conscientious regard to its patrons and the community will be extended.

In connection with this contemplated edition, it is perhaps proper to mention at this time that Prescott has been at various times in the past few years practically robbed by the skin game that has been successively practiced by the itinerant fakir who has for a few days at a time worked his game under the guise of a public distribution of printed matter. In short and in fact this community has thrown away hundreds of dollars, and nothing represented has been carried out. The legitimate is generally handled by the home element, and it is this principle that is manifested today in these bona fide promoters that prompts us to encourage them in the work they are entering. The last edition of the Prospect at St. Louis has brought the many to a keen realization of one fact, that Yavapai county is a desirable section in mines and mining, and if this character of information will be followed out at Portland, a better acquaintance with the country is sure to result. There is everything good to anticipate from this project. Nothing detrimental will come. Arizona's prominence today in the production of copper places it as the third on the list, while in gold yield it is likewise coming to be a recognized center of prominence. These facts should be made known through every avenue possible, public as well as private, and by so doing the country will in the long run to say the least receive the benefit of such information.

Linked to this special edition of the Prospect there will be a novel system of illustrations. Every district will have portrayed some familiar landmark to identify its physical geography, while in the line of general illustrations, this work will be the most generous of any heretofore issued from Yavapai county. The movement should be supported by every business element as it will not only be a creditable reflection of our industrial backbone, but likewise will it be a wholesome argument for capital to come and see to say the least.
